Exciting Work Opportunities

Day of Adaptation is ripe for exponential growth, and seeks dynamic individuals to fill two important positions. The first is a social media manager who will be responsible for expanding the foundation's presence on LinkedIn and Twitter. The second position is a marketing coordinator who will be responsible for recruiting new clients. The social media manager and marketing coordinator will be instrumental not only in expanding the foundation's reach but also in encouraging climate action.

Both of these positions offer the opportunities to:

- gain important professional experience in public relations and product management
- participate in an extremely rewarding phase of Day of Adaptation's growth
- address the environmental crisis from a unique perspective
- work alongside distinguished professionals
- be coached by supportive leaders who listen
- campaign actively for climate action
- produce quantifiable results that will testify to ingenuity and effort
- develop professional networks through interaction with NGOs, governments, educational institutions and companies
- receive remuneration in accordance with Dutch regulations

Day of Adaptation is a not-for-profit foundation based in Haarlem that uses fun group activities to empower people and organisations to understand, accept and commit to climate action. It has developed and implemented two dynamic programs, Dialogue Day and Game Day, and achieved positive results with clients such as ABN-AMRO, University of Groningen and the Municipality of Rotterdam. The foundation has also adapted to the pandemic by holding activities online and using mega-sized equipment outdoors. For more information about Day of Adaptation, please see dayad.org

Interested individuals are invited to send questions and/or expressions of interest to talent@dayad.org